The local voice of the Eastern Partnership

Issue 14, April 2021

Dear reader,

The purpose of this e-newsletter is to inform you about the work of the Conference of Regional and Local Authorities for the Eastern Partnership (CORLEAP), the policy background and the international context in which it operates.

In this e-newsletter:

1. Eastern Partnership News
2. Partner News
3. Publications

Since the end of 2020, the political situation in the Eastern Partnership region has been tense, as most of the partner countries have been facing security and sovereignty threats, as well as internal political crises. The Eastern Partnership Summit could not take place in the beginning of 2021, as planned, due to the continuous travel restrictions and health situation both in the EU and in the EaP region. In the meantime, other meetings and activities went on in digital format. The implementation of various projects and programmes on the ground successfully adapted to the new realities of remote cooperation, benefitting from the possibility to enlarge the circle of participants and speakers relatively easily thanks to available technology.

CORLEAP Digest picks relevant EaP news for local and regional authorities. Comments and contributions can be sent to: corleap@cor.europa.eu.

Best wishes,

The CORLEAP secretariat

Decentralisation and Local Self-government in Eastern Partnership countries

All Eastern Partnership (EaP) countries face great challenges related to strategic planning, transparency, accountability in budget spending decisions, and civil society's participation in decision-making. In the past year, the COVID-19 pandemic slowed down the implementation of the European principles of decentralisation and local self-government in the EaP region. This policy paper, prepared by the Eastern Partnership Civil Society Forum, analyses the successes and challenges in the process of decentralisation and local self-governance in the EaP countries, and offers a set of recommendations for strengthening decentralisation processes.
